Mosby's Furniture.—A representative of the Boston Furniture gives the following extract from a sermon recently delivered by a Professor at Harvard University, and asks if students are safe when exposed to such language:

Viewing this subject from the eastern stand-point of Christian civilization a lawyer, and applying the principles of international law to the conduct of this entity, we perceive at once the absolute indecency of this entity, while from that other stand-point of international law, which characterizes the Ecclesiastic hierarchy of the Jews, we are constrainedly compelled with the precisely reprehensible quality thereof.

"What does the Minister say of our new burying-ground?" asked Mrs. Hines of her neighbor. "He don't like it at all he never will be buried there as long as he lives." "Well," says Hines, "if the Lord spares my life, I will."

Jane Jones has no objection to the tickler, when applied to Jane. Jane Jones contends stoutly for the liquor law, as applicable to John—John's argument is concise and simple. When John does liquor, he does lick her. When John don't liquor, he don't lick her; the conclusion she wishes to teach.

Why a Woman was Made of a Rib.—A young lady having asked a surgeon why woman was made from the rib of a man in preference to any other bone, he gave the following gallant answer: "She was not taken from the head lest she should rule over him not from his feet lest he should trample upon her; but she was taken from his side, that she might be equal; from under his arm, that he might protect her; from next his heart, that he might cherish and love her."
